Janet Bruesselbach is a graduate of RISD and the New York Academy of Art; previous exhibitions include "I Hate Art" and Teleportraiture. This is a selection from Daughters of Mercury, a series of full-length, large-scale oil portraits celebrating the beauty of trans women. The series plays with the tropes of the female body in representational painting. The subjects collaborated with the artist and chose how to be seen, through the artist's inventive cyborg figuration.

Featuring games by

Anna Anthropy, Jeanne Thornton, Eva Ohnoproblems, and Lydia Neon
